WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1881.

The reception of His Majesty the King in Europe is highly gratifying. Had he been the sovereign of millions, instead of thousands, he could not have been better received. We have every hope that his visit may prove of great advantage to the Islands. We are sure of one thing, his presence there, his manner and bearing, will have a great influence in creating a Begent to appoint Honorable J. M. Karssa. Post-master General, vice A. P. The news from Hilo is fairly alarming; and for the first time the Hilo people seem to have unanimously awaked H N Waiting seem to have unanimously awaked to D H Nahing their danger. For some time it appeared Fig. Hospitt as if they were divided; some thought R Johnson there was danger, some thought not, but it was no uncertain sound which came by Jacob Hardy the last Likelike. The citizens of Hilo are in earnest now, and their appeal is being responded to. By this steamer, shovels, pickaxes, railway barrows, and food have been sent up; we do sincerely trust that human means may be of some avail to stay the dread destroyer, but we have our grave fears. The force of molten lava appears irresistible. It seems to be able to surmount all obstacles, and if it can overcome the gigantic obstacles of Nature, we can hardly hope that the pigmy efforts of man will be of much avail. Still while there is life there is hope, and we must all of us bear in mind the fable of Hercules and the wagonner: heaven helps them that help themselves; even if a little money is thrown away uselessly, the authorities will have the satisfaction of feeling that they have done their utmost. We do not have much hope of the suc-cess of the mounds; from all we have read, the lava seems to have an unpleasant faculty of travelling uphill as well as down, still they are worth trying. What commends itself to our minds is the use dynamite on the upper part of the flow; if an outlet could be made above, it might be possible to drain off from the main artery and thus check the advance. Whatever is done will be viewed with the keenest interest by all here; we are sure that the next two mails from Hilo will be watched for with intense anxiety. No one can contemplate the destruction of such a beautiful spot, without feelings of intense sadness. Let us trust that the efforts now being made by the executive may be crowned with success. The citizens of Hilo may be sure that they have the most profound sympathy from every person in the group and not a few quiet and unostentations affairs in Hilo when we write next week, but we have great fears lest firstead of being more hopeful, the accounts may be flashing over the telegraph wires, were well-chosen. The wily Don is certainly "hoka." He may come to the front again but he will have to work mighty hard to do so. When the steamer Asia, with the King and Suite on board, arrived in the Bay of Naples, the Don was on hand, and arrived with the various dignataries of Italy to receive His Majesty. For a time he was successful; none of the Royal party understood Italian, and the Bazoo Circuit Court of Mani.

The June term of the Circuit Court of Mani, was opened by an adjournment last Wednesday, at Walleke, Judge Judd presiding. Mr. Preston and Mr. W. O. Smith appearing for the Crown. The first case was the King vs. Lilloway, selling liquer without hoeses, ventice of guilty; Jones for defendant. The next case tried was the King vs. E. Morgan and A. Pareda, indicted for an assault with intent to rob; verdict, not guilty; Hartwell for defendants. The next trial was the indictment against Allacdyce, Jamieson and Emmedy, on a charge of burglary. The jury rendered a prompt and custalmous verdict of not guilty; Hartwell for Allardyce, Harts for Jamieson and Kennedy, Shaw vs. Alcana was next tried, the plaintiff ciaming $1,155 for 64 head of cattle at $18 a head. The Don, we understand, feels himself too dignified to keep accounts, and moreover he stated that he had only $760 to account for; that sum he had drawn from Mr. Martin in Paris; the $3,000 that had been furnished him by the Government was entirely on his own private account. No wonder that he was spending that the labour the suite out of the way, got into the King's carriage and drove with him to his hotel. Here, however, a change came over the spirit of his dreams; as soon as opportunity offered, a private conversation was held with him, and he was treated to a little Chinese biography; there also came the question of accounts; a settlement and straightening out was, we hear demonstrated to keep accounts, and moreover he stated that he had only $760 to account for; that sum he had drawn from Mr. Martin in Paris; the $3,000 that had been furnished him by the Government was entirely on his own private account. No such restraining influence is upon the control of the c not a few quiet and unostentatious prayers are raised for their safety. The anxiety of mind which the residents of the capital of Hawaii are suffering must be intense. We hope to be able to give more intense. We hope to be able to give more cluded by saying that the colony wanted intense of the condition of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied, and it fell into the pool in one magnificent torrent of none "to form an inferior class—a class of the condition of the stream was occupied. none "to form an inferior class—a class of howers of wood and drawers of water. Unless they could be admitted to the full rights of citizenship with all their privileges, they had far better be kept away." Almost every argument used by Sir Henry Parkes in New South Wales has been used in the Hawaiian Islands, but the last has not to our knowledge, been brought forward; or if it has, not very prominently; yet this is the very heart of the matter. What the Hawaiian Government should be aiming at is the building up of a national life. Now, the Chinese will never build up a national life. They may give material prosperity to a minority; they "MORENO HOKA !" the words which came material prosperity to a minority; they may cultivate lands which would other build up a national life. They may give material prosperity to a minority; they may cultivate lands which would otherwise lie waste; but they do not give political strength to a country."

By these remarks we do not wish it to be thought that we advocate the total abrogation of Chinese immigration. All we wish for is to have it brought within manageable compass. We are well aware that it is a vital matter for plantations to be supplied with labor; and it is a vital matter for the country to have its plantations prosperous; but as we have maintained on several occasions, China is not the only field from which labor is to be obtained, and we should not lean too much upon it. Chinese immigration might even be made to do good in a certain way. A capitation tax on every Chinaman entering the country might be devoted to bringing in a more desirable class of immigrants. Such a capitation tax ought
